References:

Halfway through each semester, instructors officially evaluate their students and submit all mid-term grades to the Office of Admissions, Records and Retention. Students doing “D” or “F” work are considered to be deficient and not making satisfactory academic progress or performance. Students on the mid-term deficiency list are warned that if they do not improve, they will receive a “D” or “F” for the course, and are encouraged to seek assistance from their instructors or the counselors.
